

MATT HARRIS, ED.D.

EdTech Consultant

Matt is an international educational consultant based in Singapore. In his work, he helps schools, districts, and educational technology companies with educational technology strategic planning, systems design, training, digital citizenship and program development. Drawing on his award-winning programs, Matt has worked with schools and large educational organizations in Europe, Middle East, Africa, North America, Australia, and Asia. He also shares his experience through keynote speeches, articles, and online social channels around educational leadership and technology. Prior to working as a consultant, Matt worked as an educational leader, teacher, author, presenter and researcher having taught all grade levels from preschool to graduate school. He worked as a senior administrator in schools and universities in North America and Asia. He is an Apple Distinguished Educator, Microsoft Innovative Education Expert, Google Certified Innovator, and Common Sense Education Certified Educator.

internationaledtech.com

AREAS OF SPECIALTY

- Leadership Consultation
- Digital Citizenship Integration
- Data Systems Design
- Vendor Consultation
- EdTech Training
- Planning & Assessment

CONTACT US FOR A CONSULTATION

We support the development of schools by exploring the organizational and individual staff professional development needs for each educational setting including needs analysis and solutions design.

Every school is at a different place and has different needs To find out more contact us at: info@21c-learning.com

